1. The military plans for the Andartes are reported to have been formulated by the IHKI General Staff and the Higher Military Council of the Soviet Union.
2. The Higher Military Council will be responsible for the security of the frontiers against foreign attacks. The Council and the Soviet Union will also assume the responsibility of providing the "Democratic Army" with sufficient volunteers to impede any possible attack from the Turks, and to dispatch adequate motorized or armored forces via the Bulgarian frontier in the event of attack. These forces would carry Greek flags and the emblem of the "Democratic Army" and would assist the volunteer troops.
3. Precautions will also be taken for adequate and prompt action in the event of foreign intervention by landings on the Bulgarian coast via the Black Sea. Defense measures will also be undertaken at the harbors of Varna and Burgas.
